

Advent appoints marine claims specialist Perry Bowen

17 June 2015: LONDON – Lloyd’s insurer Advent today announces the appointment of Perry Bowen as claims adjuster for its marine division. He takes up his position with immediate effect and will report to Steven Abbott, head of claims and reinsurance administration.

Bowen is a multi-class adjuster with a focus on marine insurance, bringing more than two decades of specialist claims experience to his new role. He began his career in the Lloyd’s specialist claims unit (later Equitas) in 1994. He joined Travelers in 2003 where he focused on property and liability claims, before being appointed claims manager for Arch Insurance Europe in 2010. In this role, Bowen handled lead marine, property, energy and A&H claims.

Abbott, said: “Perry is a recognised expert in marine claims, particularly in the fine art and specie sector. Appointing market leaders in their respective fields, who go the extra mile in terms of service, is a key part of our strategy to ensure that our offering continues to evolve in recognition of the needs of our clients and brokers. Perry is an excellent addition to our claims team who will complement our existing expertise and enhance our marine proposition. I am very pleased to welcome him to Advent.”
